A Barge Hunting Party Return Bom the Indian Nation.

A Break-Down in Red River-Captured -Prepared for War-Lost-Other Incidents.

On the 9th inst., a party of gentlemen left this city on a hunting trip to the Indian territory. It was composed of Mes-rs. Sam Finley, T. I Courtright Burb Bondurant, W. T. Grigeby, and Burb Bondurant, W. T. Grigrby, and Stuart Harrison of this city, and Dr. Simmons, Jas. McCall, Frank De-Smeth. Harry Brown, and L. Canterloo of Weatherford. They returned night before last and give some interesting details of their sport.

Arriving at Wichita Falls on the Denver road, the party procured a nule team and wagen to carry the ammunition and guns, and getting in backs they were soon off for the nation, in high spirits and prepared to shoot anything from a prairie dog to a panther.

dog to a panther.
The first important incident occurred when crossing red river.

The negro boy who was driving the mule team, becoming absorbed in reflections that were soothing to his senses, went to sleep and allowed one of the mules to plunge and break the tongue out of the wagon. The hacks drove up, a consultation was held and it was decided that sam Finley, Stuart Harrison and Burb Bondurant should strip and brave the terrors of the fixed in carrying the ammunition and guns to the shore, about 100 yards distant. In they plunged and, oh doctor! wasn't itcold? The water of the river is never very clear and at this particular time of the year it serves as a good Comanche war-paint, and when the sportsmen finished their work they were red enough to be in full regulation war costume, and the remark of the darky was entirely appropriate when he said: "Golly, Mars Sam, yo' own mother wouldn't know you."

The first night out was spent on the banks of the Red river, and as the hunters lay around the camp-fire telling WHEN CROSSING RED RIVER

The first night out was spent on the banks of the Red river, and as the hunters lay around the eamp fire telling blood curdling stories, in which tomahawks, scalps and knives formed the principal ingredients.

Sambo, the negro boy, cautiously slipped into the tent and when next seen had four No. 45's and a Bowie knife in his beit. After everything had gotten back into serene channels and the stranger had imbibed some of the good spirits of the party, another stranger was seen galloping toward the camp. The hunters were a szed, but not wishing to interfere in a broil which might have involved them in an international dispute they stood and looked on while stranger No. 2 tied stranger No. 1 on his horse and gall-ped away with him in the approaching darkness. No explanation is effered for this strange proceeding, and after Sambo had been putled from behind the wagon and his fears quieted the party had supper and lay down to sleep and dream of tomorrow's sport.

Sam Finley was the first to return with one of the mules, after an absence of several hours. When some distance from camp he saw that they had been changed around; the hacks and been changed around; the hacks and wagous were in a circle and Sambo was nowhere to be seen. and one of the party got lost. Not returning up to a late hour, the others set out to look for him and after several hours search he was found. He was so bewildered in the darkness that he could not follow the direction of a sound. He said, after geiting into eamp, that he had the wits scared out of him by an owl that screamed within a foot of his ear. He had rambled around and around in a circle, hearing shots but apparently geiting further away from them. At last he stopped and by firing his gun brought the others to him. This was the last camp, and on counting up they found they hid killed 160 turkeys, 2 deer, 1 hear cub, 2 catamounts, over 100 squircels and innumerable quall. The breasts of the turkeys were stripped and the meat cured and brought itome.

Dr. Simmons was the captain of the party and they had a royal time.

A Local Correspondent Notices Another Alleged Monopoly.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 16, 1884. To the Editor of the Gazette. There is one monopoly here that needs exposing, as it acts directly on the health of the city and the poorer wagons. They now charge $1 for eight barrels of water, and many have waxed fat at that price in face of the hard fat at that price in face of the hard times. I told a new-comer who solicited my supply I should want ten barriels for $1. He said he would be willing to supply me at that, as he could make good wages at that price, but the old hands notified himjthat they would blure him and his team if he did, and not only that, but would poison the well of any man who let him have water to sell at that price, and when bad weather came they expected to raise the price.

The scarcity of water is the cause of a good deal of the fever now existing, as but little is used for scrubbing and washing by many families, and that a party of men should be allowed to mbine to stint the water supply to our poorer citizens is monstrous and needs attention, even if the city should cacks Twelve to sixteen barrels for a dollar is sufficient prios to pay with the good roads we now have. I am yours respectfully, Southsides.

The Show To-Night.

Barlow & Wilson's minstrels, which will give a performance in the operahouse, is said to be the best minstrel show in America The following is from the Cincinnati Enquirer: "Bar low and Wilson's minstrels gave two performances at Heuch's new operanouse yesterday, and their show can safely be pronounced not one of the best, but the best minstrel entertainment over all or the state of th seek, but the test minstre! entertainment ever given in Cincinnati, and in saying this we bar none. In the after noon the house was filled, and in the evening packed to sufficiation point, go distanding room not being attainable in any portion of the theater.

Every act on the bill was new, and a more guidestic services.

Every act on the bill was new, and a more enjoyable show it would be hard to flod. In the first part the instrumental music was excellent, the ballad singing of Gale, Vernon and Woods far superior to that generally heard in shows of this class, and their effects were warmly applauded. The end men were of those who rank with the cream of the profession, and Barlow, Dougherty and Wilson all introduced new songs, and, what is more wonderful still, new jokes, something heretofore considered an almost impossibility for end men, but we are dealing in facts when we state that not a "chestnut" was to be discovered. George Wilson carried off the hon-ray. He is an inimitable comedian, and, what is more, has a sweer voice, that makes his singing of the comic refrains all the mere enjoyable.
